House Hearing on Survivor Outreach: The House Committee on Veterans' Affairs held an oversight hearing on gaps in VA's outreach to survivors for benefits and services. VFW Auxiliary member Gabriella Kubinyi spoke about the VFW's concerns regarding claims processing and delivery of health care, specifically in relation to mental health. She also addressed support for an increase in Dependency and Indemnity Compensation (DIC). Kubinyi said, "Every family should be fully aware that when the veteran dies, whatever benefits they were receiving will end." She continued by sharing her own survivor experience with Vet Center services and education assistance. As a former case worker for the VFW, she assisted many spouses who were not expecting or prepared for the abrupt end to compensation once their loved ones died. "Year after year, the VFW and advocates like me ask Congress to improve on a variety of survivor issues, and legislation is drafted but never receives the needed votes to enact significant changes," Kubinyi said. "I strongly urge this committee to find pathways necessary to make sure survivor benefits are taken seriously and not pushed off again for the next Congress." End-of-Life Benefits Planning: VA has a campaign designed to inform veterans and their family members about end-of-life benefits. Being aware of available benefits and services before a veteran passes away can make it easier to navigate the process and plan accordingly.
